It also supports image, text, and vector graphics. Features include a customizable UI, font and color support, and a built in PDF to text converter. Bass Enthusiast - 2011 Lexus RC400 Lexus hopes that the RC400 can accomplish the same thing as its sporty predecessor: to capture the hearts of sporty, uncompromising drivers with its performance. The RC 400 was shown to the public in December, 2007 at the Beijing auto show. Now the RC400 is on display at the 2010 LA Auto Show in Los Angeles. The 2011 RC400 shares the same interior as the RC350 and RC330, but the exterior is dramatically altered. The front end is a new design with a more aggressive, almost sporty design. The RC400 now has a far more extensive body kit, with a large spoiler vent over the rear wheel arches, and large front splitter, plus new air intake in the front bumper. It sports new 15-inch wheels, but the tires are the same as the RC350. There is some controversy over the tail lights on the 2011 Lexus RC400, as they are a combination of the LED lights of the RC350 and the RC330. They are tinted to match the body color. Under the hood the engine is the same as the RC350, an incredible 5.0-liter V8 engine that develops 440 horsepower and 398 pound-feet of torque, making it the most powerful naturally aspirated V8 engine available in a sports coupe at this price level. It also has a six-speed automatic transmission with paddle-shifters. Inside the car it has been
