how long does it take for finder to find quod-software.exe which is down Is it just me or is it slower than usual this morning to search for a program or an executable? MILWAUKEE – A 50-year-old Milwaukee man was killed in a crash that was reported at 12:01 a.m. Sunday, April 3, 2020, in the 4900 block of N. 35th Street. The crash occurred after a 53-year-old man drove his vehicle west on N. 35th Street and struck a pedestrian who was crossing 35th Street, in the crosswalk. The pedestrian, a 50-year-old man, was taken to the hospital, where he later died. As a result of the collision, the 53-year-old man was issued a citation for Violation of 5320 WIS. ADDRESS: 9000 block of N. 32nd St. (No Exemptions) (Based on Police Records) for failing to yield right of way to pedestrian. This crash remains under investigation by the Milwaukee Police Department. Information will be released at a later date as it becomes available. Q: Does "My website is brand new" match up to any certain SE guideline? I came across this question which is likely to be better suited for the native English SE. My query comes from one of the answer of this question: My website is brand new. I just launched a large new content site with a newly written website/content engine. I do have a few sources on the site that I'd like to point to, but I would like to say "See my new website for information on [link]". I think you need to mention explicitly about your own website in the question. Why does it seem okay to mention about others' website and even give a link? A: Perhaps, but it's not really the place to ask about that. SE doesn't maintain a list of acceptable questions, because there's more than one type of question that won't fit well on the SE format. For example, someone might ask: How can I make my website so that my children won't type in a word we don't want them to? Or they might ask: Why is my website not rendering properly?
